

Season's Greetings

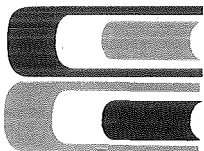

The Christmas Season has always generated an extra degree of warmth and generosity we hope to find throughout the year.

I want to take this opportunity to wish for you all the good things that are associated with the year-end. Especially, may I express Seasons Greetings to you and your families with the notion that at the place where you are employed are those of many faiths who celebrate in their own way the meaning of this Holiday time.

I hope too, that you will appreciate that Capilano College is a most meaningful organization which serves a needed function and that the significance of every person is paramount for our service and involvement in this community.

May I sincerely wish you a very happy and safe holiday at this Christmas and New Year break.
