

, 1983

HUBERT JOE, of the Sechelt Indian band, receives his pre-apprentice plumber certificate from Cap College Dean Greg Lee (right) and Bob Irvine (left) co-ordinator of vocational services.

Plumbers graduate

Months of hard work paid off, Friday, when 16 aspiring plumbers graduated from their pre-apprentice plumbing course held on the Sechelt Indian Reserve.

Dignitaries from Sechelt mayor Joyce Kolibas to Capiiano College Dean Greg Lee helped the students celebrate the occasion.

Lee told the graduating class that the course has "been a joint effort by all concerned."

The plumbing course was the sixth course sponsored by Cap College, Canada Manpower and the Sechelt Indian Reserve. Previous courses included early child care, homemakers, long-term care, small engines and carpentry.

Ann Quinn, co-ordinator for the native courses said that she is now scheduling for an electrician's course.

She told the students: "You have your certificates...now use them."