

A Message To Capilano College Students

With the continuing labour dispute at the College, you are no doubt concerned about what will happen to your term and your course credits.

The Board and Management of the College would like to reassure you that when classes resume arrangements will be made so you can complete your term. If the labour dispute continues for any length of time such completion would require an extension of the fall term into January.

In the meantime, during the dispute the College Management is making every effort to keep key student services open at the Lynnmour campus. Each weekday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., until further notice, the following areas are open for student use:

- The main Library
- The computer and typing labs in H building
- The Registrar's Office
- The Business Office for student loan help
- The main switchboard (8 a.m. to 4 p.m.)

Douglas K. Jardine
President
Capilano College
November 7, 1986

