Orkestra Futura's Music: the Invisible Art

Music is the Invisible Art. It's the powerful force that can affect all beings through sound vibration.

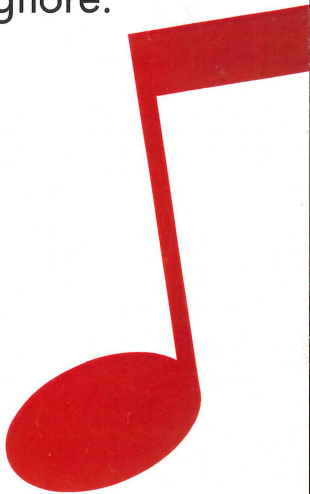

Music: the Invisible Art

is a full-length evening concert focused on developing a personal improvisational vocabulary and process, and featuring exciting world premieres from Stefan Smulovitz and Coat Cooke. The voice is the first human instrument and electronics the most recent, and in this program Orkestra Futura explores the terrain between them. Special Guests include the Futura Chamber Choir, Christine Duncan, DB Boyko, Viviane Houle and Peter Hurst. Featuring 2 Electronics - 2 Strings - 2 Horns - 2 x 2 Voices - 2 Percussion, the band will be playing musical pairs.

Orkestra Futura features the unique electronics vision of Lee Hutzulak and Soressa Gardner and the high flying improvising vocalist chamber choir. Add the remarkable strings of Jesse Zubot and Tommy Babin, the breathtaking horns of Brad Muirhead and Coat Cooke, and a rocking percussion section of Joe Poole and Skye Brooks for spice. Now you have a truly modern ensemble, with the capability to build from a strong foundation of tradition and set course for a blueprint of the future using modern composed forms at the beck and call of a world-class improvising ensemble.
