COASTAL JAZZ ENVISIONS NEW HOME

Coastal Jazz has an unprecedented opportunity to create a new home on Hamilton Street in the heart of Vancouver's cultural precinct.

We envision the new facility as a sound foundation for Coastal Jazz, which will allow us to expand our programs, add to the richness of life for listeners and performers, and provide our community with even greater access to music.

CBC/RADIO-CANADA BUILDING | FUTURE HOME OF COASTAL JAZZ | IMAGE COURTESY OF HOTSON BAKKER BONIFACE HADEN ARCHITECTS

Think about this: the TD Canada Trust Vancouver International Jazz Festival, Winterruption Festival on Granville Island, and the greatest number of free events in town; community initiatives such as jazz festival workshops, JazzStreet Vancouver, and the Creative Music Think Tank; education programs such as the TD Canada Trust High School Jazz Intensive. The driving force behind them all is Coastal Jazz, the foundation of music in the city and the organization of sound.

Towards the end of 2010, the new facility located at the CBC Plaza on Hamilton Street will provide: 8500 square feet of community-use space in downtown Vancouver; a secure, below-market rate for 30 years; priority use of CBC's new indoor 120-seat theatre and outdoor stage located just steps from our new home; an enhanced box office with state-of-the-art listening stations; a music education centre with resources and programs for youth; services for Vancouver festivals; and a gathering place for the community.

A FUNDRAISING PERFORMANCE OF
DUKE ELLINGTON'S SACRED MUSIC BENEFITTING THE WORK OF THE FIRST UNITED CHURCH MISSION

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20 AT 8 PM
 ST. ANDREWS-WESLEY UNITED CHURCH

PRESENTED BY FIRST UNITED CHURCH AND COASTAL JAZZ

DEE DANIELS • FRED STRIDE ORCHESTRA • JAMES CADDELL
 PHOENIX CHAMBER CHOIR • TROY MCLAUGHLIN

When performing with the Fred Stride Orchestra during the summer of 2008, singer Dee Daniels spoke to the audience and put it "out in the universe" that she was looking for help to bring the Sacred Music of Duke Ellington to Vancouver—she didn't know who, how, or what would happen. The next day she received an email.

Tony Weall, on the staff of the First United Church Mission, was in that audience the night before and the music touched him. The initiatives that have since developed from this one pair of ears has resulted in the mounting of this meaningful performance—a way to recognize, support, and continue the work of the First United Church Mission as they approach their 125th year of serving in Vancouver's Downtown Eastside community.

Today in the Vancouver Downtown Eastside, it is not the mills or wealth creation that draws the attention; instead of the decimated trees, it is the decimated lives at the margins of the city. The statistics tell the story:

- 10 city blocks with a population of 10,000
- 75% of residents are classified as "low-income"
- 5,000 to 6,000 are addicted and/or mentally ill

8

While further corporate sponsorship opportunities remain, the project has already attracted the support of Pacific Coastal Airlines as Platinum Sponsor, and CBC as the Media (Radio and Television) Sponsor. It is hoped that you will also be moved to support this worthwhile cause and experience western Canada's premiere presentation of Duke Ellington's Sacred Music.

PEGGY LEE'S FILM IN MUSIC

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17 AT 8 PM
 THE IRONWORKS

PRESENTED BY BARKING SPHINX AND COASTAL JAZZ

Vancouver cellist Peggy Lee was inspired to create Film in Music after hearing improvised solos by Evan Parker, Peter Evans, and Mary Oliver at the 2008 Time Flies Festival. Lee says, "I was struck by how, on one level, such exploration can be so subtle and personal and yet, on another level, be filled with such a sense of drama and suspense."

Lee envisions a context in which such exploration could work within a set of written music, pieces which would heighten the dramatic experience of the solos. She wants to convey the cinematic effects of that drama using musical choices, not as an attempt to tell any story in particular but to evoke a similar tension between players, creating suspense and absolutely focused, driven performances. With Torsten Müller bass, Jesse Zubot violin, Kevin Elaschuk trumpet, Ron Samworth guitar, Chris Gestrin piano, André Lachance bass, Dylan van der Schyff drums.

ANTHONY BRAXTON 12 + 1 TET

FRIDAY, JANUARY 29 AT 8 PM
CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL

PRESENTED WITH

coastaljazz

Anthony Braxton, composer, saxophonist, clarinetist, flautist, pianist, and philosopher, is widely and critically acclaimed as a seminal figure in the music of the late 20th century. He has created a vast body of highly complex work ranging from solo saxophone performances to elaborate compositions for huge ensembles such as his For Four Orchestras. One of the most prolific American musician/composers in history, Braxton has released over 100 recordings since he joined the Chicago-based AACM (Association for the Advancement of Creative Musicians) back in 1966. Over the next four decades he broke new conceptual and technical ground, extending and expanding upon jazz and Euro/American classical music traditions as defined by master improvisers such as John Coltrane, Paul Desmond, Warne Marsh, and Ornette Coleman, and by composers such as Charles Ives, Harry Partch, John Cage, Stockhausen, and Varese. His work has attracted wide-ranging collaborators such as Chick Corea, Dave Holland, Max Roach, Evan Parker, Derek Bailey, Pat Metheny, Richard Teitelbaum, Wolf Eyes, Robert Schumann String Quartet, and countless others. His long list of awards and achievements includes the 1994 MacArthur "Genius" Award. With his 12-piece ensemble, the 12 + 1 tet, Braxton's music moves freely between the performance of compositions and improvisations and between solos and ensemble playing—and yet weaves magical and mysteriously integrated textures full of sparks. Come and experience the enormously stimulating, sophisticated, and passionate music of one of the world's most dynamic musical forces. With Anthony Braxton reeds/composition, Taylor Ho Bynum cornet/trumpet/flugelhorn/bass trumpet, Nicole Mitchell flutes, Andrew Raffo Dewar, James Fei reeds, Steve Lehman saxophones, Sara Schoenbeck bassoon, Jessica Pavone violin/alto viola, Mary Halvorson electric guitar, Reut Regev trombone, Jay Rozen tuba, Carl Testa double bass/bass clarinet, Aaron Siegel drums/percussion/vibes.

ANTHONY BRAXTON'S SONIC GENOME PROJECT

SUNDAY, JANUARY 31 AT NOON
ROUNDHOUSE COMMUNITY CENTRE

The Sonic Genome is one of the most thrillingly ambitious experiments by musical visionary/saxophonist/composer Anthony Braxton: less a concert than the creation of an interactive musical environment. For eight continuous hours, 50+ performers use the compositions and improvisational languages developed by Braxton through his 40 years of artistic investigation to create a living sound world. Ensembles form and split apart like cells dividing and reforming into new organisms; likewise, the members of the audience are invited to be active participants, choosing who and what to listen to as they move about the space.

Braxton enlists the band members of the 12 + 1 tet as his musical lieutenants in the endeavour, with each given the responsibility of leading sub ensembles of the larger group. The rest of the performers are drawn from the surrounding community, ranging from local professionals to college and high school students.

In addition to being a massive statement by a master artist, the Sonic Genome also serves as a powerful tool for creating bonds in the local community. No listener or performer emerges unmoved by the experience; participants describe the event as "life-changing," resulting in new friendships, and lasting artistic inspiration. And while Braxton conducted a Sonic Genome as a recording project in 2003 (to be released as an interactive DVD in the next year), the Vancouver performance will be the world premiere of the project as a public performance.

See opposite page for a list of the 12 + 1 tet members.

22ND ANNUAL IMPROVISED MUSIC FESTIVAL

FEBRUARY 4-6 AT 8 PM
THE IRONWORKS

TORSTEN MÜLLER

Renowned German bassist Torsten Müller continues to be a valued collaborator on Vancouver's creative music scene since making the city his home almost a decade ago. A great improviser who expands the sonic possibilities of his instrument through extended techniques, Müller has worked with a diverse cast of international improvisers including Gunter Christmann, Ken Vandermark, Evan Parker, John Butcher, and Robin Holcomb.

Mei Han is a groundbreaking virtuoso on the Chinese zheng. Presenting music deeply rooted in over two thousand years of Chinese culture, she is transforming the stately zheng into a powerful tool for the contemporary international concert stage. Han regularly performs challenging new works by leading-edge composers including compositions by Minoru Miki, Yuji Takahashi, and Barry Truax. As an accomplished improviser, she has toured internationally with the Mei Han Art Ensemble. Her collaborators include piano luminary Paul Plimley and mandolin master John Reischman.

DYLAN VAN DER SCHYFF

Vancouver drummer Dylan van der Schyff is a heavyweight in the city's acclaimed jazz and improvised music community. AllAboutJazz.com notes that his "ability to extract an infinite variety of textures from a simple drum kit is unparalleled." Besides working with local groups like Talking Pictures, NOW Orchestra, and the Brad Turner Quartet, Dylan collaborates with international names like Dave Douglas, Mark Helias, Achim Kauffman, and Fredrik Ljungkvist.

SARA SCHOENBECK

Californian Sara Schoenbeck is a bassoonist who dedicates herself to expanding the sound and role of her instrument in the worlds of contemporary notated and improvised music. The Wire magazine (London) places her in the "tiny club of bassoon pioneers" at work in contemporary music today, and the New York Times calls her "riveting," noting that she mixes "textural experiments with a big, confident sound." She is a member of Anthony Braxton's 12+1 tet, Wayne Horvitz's Gravitass Quartet, and Vinny Golia's Large Ensemble.

Curated by Ken Pickering and Torsten Müller, this three-night collaborative project has eight internationally acclaimed musicians (three from Vancouver and five from the USA) exploring improvisational practices in a warm, intimate setting. Each evening the octet pushes the music into daring and invigorating terrain using different combinations of players throughout.

Brooklyn-based string instrumentalist/composer Jessica Pavone is best known for her work with Anthony Braxton's 12 + 1 tet and for her duo project with guitarist Mary Halvorson, which has been described as "distinct and beguiling [whose] core is steely, and its execution clear" (New York Times). She currently plays bass guitar and viola in her 60's soul-inspired band The Pavones, and she plays viola and composes for No Way to Say Goodbye (a string quartet that substitutes a second violin for a double bass).

New Yorker Taylor Ho Bynum is a brass instrumentalist/composer committed to the further exploration of composition and improvisation pioneered by masters like Ellington, Ives, and the AACM, but with a third-millennial flavour and a trickster sensibility. He presently leads his Trio, his Sextet, the chamber ensemble SpiderMonkey Strings, and the little big band Positive Catastrophe, and he has developed a body of solo music for cornet and duo work with dancer/choreographer Rachel Bernsen. Bynum regularly performs with Anthony Braxton, Cecil Taylor, and Bill Dixon.

Brooklyn-based guitarist Mary Halvorson has been performing regularly with Anthony Braxton and Trevor Dunn's Trio-Convulsant. She has also worked alongside Joe Morris, Nels Cline, John Tchicai, Elliott Sharp, Andrea Parkins, Marc Ribot, Oscar Noriega, and Jason Moran. Current projects include her Trio with John Hebert and Ches Smith, a chamber-music duo with violist Jessica Pavone, and the avant-rock band People. All About Jazz calls her "the most impressive guitarist of her generation" and enthuses that "the future of jazz guitar starts here."

Chicago-based cellist Fred Lonberg-Holm works in many varied contexts including the Valentine Trio (Jason Roebke, Frank Rosaly); Peter Brotzmann Chicago Tentet; Ken Vandermark's Territory Band, Frame Quartet, and Vandermark 5; Joe McPhee's Survival Unit III (with Michael Zerang); and Tony Malaby's Cello Trio. His extensive discography includes free improvised and jazz recordings as well as projects by rock groups including Califone, Freakwater, God is My Co-Pilot, Wilco, and many others.

PERFORMANCE WORKS

coastaljazz

This acoustic trio from Quebec City plays the pop hits of the '80s in a swinging gypsy-jazz style inspired by their musical hero Django Reinhardt. Their debut album, Lost in the 80s, has already achieved platinum-plus status in Canada for sales over 100,000 within Quebec alone. A huge draw in their home province, the band thrilled jazz festival audiences across the country last summer with their witty and jazzed-up renditions of hits by the likes of AC/DC (You Shook Me), Michael Jackson (Billie Jean), Stevie Wonder (Part-Time Lover), Hall & Oates (Man-eater), George Michael (Careless Whisper), Jon Bon Jovi (You Give Love a Bad Name), and more. Throw in tunes by Django Reinhardt like Swing 42, Blue Drag, and Minor Swing, and you've got hugely talented artists fashioning a performance that's hilarious, offbeat, and incredibly fun to listen to. PERFORMANCE WORKS

One of Norway's most extraordinary artists, pianist/composer Håvard Wiik first made his mark in Vancouver at the Jazz Festival with the Scandinavian powerhouse quintet Atomic several years ago. His sensitive, lyrical playing and ability to traverse mainstream traditions while plying more open approaches was a hit with audiences. Besides Atomic, Wiik also works with Free Fall (Ken Vandermark, Ingebrigt Håker Flaten), Atomic Schooldays, a duo with Hakon Kornstad, and a new project with Axel Dorner and Fredrik Ljungkvist. He's also collaborated with jazz giants Joe Lovano, Kenny Wheeler, and Lee Konitz. His acclaimed new trio finds him performing with Hakon Mjaset Johansen drums and Ole Morten Vågan bass, and together they present a fresh view on the classic piano trio format. The group's CD The Arcades Project (Jazzland) finds Wiik on top of his game as composer, pianist, and bandleader.

Here comes a Cajun music dance-a-thon brimming with sounds as compelling, diverse, and exotic as one evening can deliver. Steve Riley & the Mamou Playboys set the gold standard for modern Cajun music. Since 1988, and over a span of 10 CD releases, their musicianship, songwriting skills, soaring vocal harmonizing, and relentless grooves mark them as one of the best bands ever to emerge from southern Louisiana. Singing almost exclusively in French, accordionist Steve Riley and his crew celebrate the treasures found in the Cajun tradition, while finding a rich and convincing contemporary voice for this resilient American roots musical style. So grab your dance partner and soak up an earful of bayou country: past, present, and future.

"Florence is beguiling. Her long, aquiline nose, wide set dark eyes, bobbed black hair and that smile, oh that smile, make for a commanding, yet impish presence. She sat at the piano beaming, head cocked over one shoulder, singing in a voice clear and pure with a darling vibrato and an indescribable texture...we were transfixed."—Montreal Gazette

Twenty-something Florence K is on a roll! The Quebec-born vocalist/pianist already has three albums under her wing, has performed on four continents, and sings in English, French, Portuguese, and Spanish. Her live concerts are enchanting musical celebrations that mix jazz, bossa, blues, and plenty of Cuban salsa. A charming newcomer to the scene, Florence K is a recipient of the Felix Award for "Best World Album 2007" for Bossa Blue.

JAZZ FESTIVAL ENTHRALLS

THANK YOU VANCOUVER!

The weather was sunny and warm and the music hot as the 24th annual TD Canada Trust Vancouver International Jazz Festival (June 26 – July 5, 2009) wrapped up another successful season. Vancouver's signature festival once again drew in excess of 500,000 people to 400 performances at 40 indoor and outdoor venues. Enormous as it is, it's the Festival's intimate, grassroots ambiance, its engaging and hospitable nature, and, of course, its broad, visionary programming that has made it British Columbia's biggest, most acclaimed, and most anticipated music and arts event.

Huge thanks go out to all the musicians, staff, and sponsors for making our 10-day event such a spectacular celebration of music and community. And special kudos to our incomparable volunteers (1,000 strong) whose skills, passion, and commitment give the Festival a singular harmony. In the words of Duke Ellington, "We love you madly!"

Please visit our web site at coastaljazz.ca for a complete list of festival volunteers. And start preparing for the 25th anniversary of the festival—June 25 – July 4, 2010.

Twenty-one students from the Lower Mainland were chosen through a competitive audition process to participate in the 2009 edition of the TD Canada Trust High School Jazz Intensive. This nine-day residency program gives students a chance to learn from some of the best musicians in the world. Jazz visionary and creative flutist, composer, bandleader, and educator Nicole Mitchell returned this year as resident artist and conductor to lead the band. "The High School Jazz Intensive program has been one of my favourite experiences of the year. Not only did the students have a wonderful attitude about learning, but also they consistently stepped up to every challenge I brought them," says Mitchell.

Attending three-hour daily rehearsals, workshops, and nightly concerts shaped a very busy, but extremely rewarding residency for the students. On Sunday, July 5th, in the Festival Hall at the Roundhouse Community Centre, the band celebrated the entire legacy of jazz music including pieces by Charles Mingus, Maria Schneider, Duke Ellington, Jelly Roll Morton, Roscoe Mitchell, and charts by student composition contest winner Jonathan Tobin.

BESS DUREY AND JACKÉE GUILLOU

WIN GALAXIE RISING STARS AWARDS AT THE TD CANADA TRUST VANCOUVER INTERNATIONAL JAZZ FESTIVAL

Galaxie

The TD Canada Trust Vancouver International Jazz Festival and Galaxie, The Continuous Music Network of the CBC, are proud to announce the Bess Drury Band and Jackée Guillou Jazz Quartet as the winners of the 7th annual Galaxie Rising Stars Awards. Chosen from the artists competing for the award as New Artist of the Year, the winners each received a $2500 grant.

One of Canada's best new talents, Vancouver jazz vocalist/composer Bess Durey blends bebop and groove with singer-songwriter hipness in emotionally compelling music. With a fluid and pitch-perfect voice, she captivates the listener from the opening note to the final haunting phrase. Flowing effortlessly from Brazilian classics to Broadway, from cabaret to jazz standards and originals, vocalist Jackée Guillou is a fresh new voice on the Vancouver scene. Her unaffected and emotional delivery is charming, and her ability to sing in French and Portuguese is icing on the musical cake.

The 24th annual TD Canada Trust Vancouver International Jazz Festival experienced one of its most successful seasons to date. With over 1800 musicians from around the world performing at over 40 indoor and outdoor venues throughout the city, the Festival drew in excess of 500,000 people while confirming its status as Vancouver's biggest music and arts event. Musicians and audiences alike herald the Festival as one of the best cultural celebrations in the world.

The Galaxie Rising Stars Program champions Canadian talent by supporting the development and promotion of our musicians. Working with more than 50 partners of the music industry across the country, this program of the CBC encourages our up-and-coming stars. To date, over 650 artists and groups have benefited from the program. Past winners from the TD Canada Trust Vancouver International Jazz Festival include Chris Davis Quartet (2008), Amanda Tosoff Quartet (2007), October Trio (2006), Inhabitants (2005), Jodi Proznick (2004), and Michael Zachernuk (2003).
